

PENSION FOR MINISTERS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Report Will Be Made at Meeting of Episcopal Council One Year Hence.

WILL ENTER THIRD PROVINCE

Opposition to Plan Finally Overcome,
but Provision Is Made That Diocese
May Withdraw at Any Time.

Final consideration of the question of pensioning supernumerary clergymen was referred yesterday by the annual council of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Virginia to a committee which shall report a year hence.

After much discussion, it was agreed that the Diocese of Virginia should be included in the third province of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, provided, however, that the local diocese should reserve the right of withdrawing without prejudice. The third province is made up of the dioceses of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia, Southern Virginia and West Virginia. Opposition to the entrance of the Diocese of Virginia into this province was based on the fear that it might destroy self-government and the power of the church unit by centralizing all authority in the province. This opposition was finally overcome by including a proviso in the resolution that the Diocese of Virginia could withdraw from the province at any time in the future it might see fit, without prejudice to the province or to the local diocese.

The last session of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America established eight provinces, leaving it optional with the dioceses whether they should be included in the provinces provided for them. The purpose of this new system is to facilitate the increasing legislation of the church and to receive the General Convention of the great mass of business which is being transacted by the church unit. Bishop Gibson was inclined to oppose the system as ignoring the church unit, the diocese, and as probably leading to the disintegration of the church. The general church, Judge J. N. McCreary summarized the general legislation on the subject, and argued in favor of including the Diocese of Virginia in the third province.

RESOLUTIONS TO ENTER

DIOCESAN ARE ADOPTED

The following resolutions for inclusion in the Diocese of Virginia in its proper province, and as adopted, were presented by the Rev. E. L. Goodwin, D. D.:

First, that the Diocese of Virginia should give its consent to be included in the third province; second, that the council does now proceed to the election of deputies, and, third, that the right of withdrawing at any time in the future, without prejudice, be reserved to the diocese.

As it was Ascension Day, the session opened with morning prayer, read by the Rev. J. Y. Downman, rector of All Saints' Church, and the Rev. S. A. Wallis, of the Virginia Theological Seminary. After the service Bishop Gibson took the chair and introduced Monell Sayre, secretary of the church pension fund, established by the general convention in 1912. He said that it was proposed to assess the various dioceses for a total of about $5,000,000 annually, each diocese being expected to make the levy on its respective parishes. A summary of his plan is as follows:

Retirement of the clergy at the age of sixty-eight upon 11-14 per cent of the average stipend received since ordination, multiplied by the years a retired clergyman has received.

Proposal to raise about $5,000,000 annually throughout the various dioceses.

Assessment to be 71-2 per cent of the active salary of the clergyman, and the money to be contributed by the parish and not by the clergyman.

To those disabled before the age of sixty-eight, a pension during continuance of the disability equal to 40 per cent of the last stipend is promised.

To the widow of a clergyman, an annuity equal to one-half of the pension that the husband would have been entitled to during marriage, with a minimum of $300 a year, provided that the marriage take place before the husband's retirement.

For minor orphans of a clergyman, annuities graduated according to age: $100 for each child under seven; $200 for each child between seven and fourteen; and $300 for each dependent minor over fourteen.

Sayre said that eighteen dioceses had approved the general pension plan, and he hoped that Virginia would be the nineteenth. The question was finally referred to a committee of five, which shall report at the next convention.

NUMBER OF MARRIAGES

HAS NOT DECREASED

The Rev. W. Russell Bowie, chairman of the social service commission, read his report. He said that in view of the appointment by Mayor Battle of a commission to study the social evil in Richmond the church commission would not now make any definite recommendation or report further than to reaffirm its belief that the policy of silence and neglect will neither solve nor ameliorate this old and deep-seated evil. The report stated that those clergymen who had put into effect the recommendation of the council meeting held in Charlottesville in May, 1913, requiring men applying to be married to give a physician's certificate of freedom from disease, testified that the number of marriages performed by them had not decreased.

"In addition," the report went on, "they feel that there has been marked increase in the church's power to give attention and regard for right ideals of masculine purity." Emphasis was again made on the necessity for having a single standard for morality, and the following recommendation was made: "That the Council emphasize the value and duty of personal purity for men and boys by appointing a committee of laymen to draw up a statement expressing this belief and to report at this meeting." The recommendation was carried.

The Rev. Frank Page declared that he believed in elevating the standard of purity among men and boys, but advocated putting women in the same category.

The personnel of the new board of appointment was announced as follows: T. C. Darr, E. L. Goodwin, W. D. Smith, J. R. White and M. Taylor.

A meeting in the interest of general mission was held last night. Addresses were made by the Rev. E. L. Woodward, M. D., missionary to China; the Rev. Robt. White, Jr., who spoke on the work in the Philippines; and the Rev. C. L. Somers, colored, who spoke on the work among his own race.

A business session will be held this morning and afternoon, after which the Council will adjourn.

Smith Case Falls Flat

Hiram M. Smith, assistant United States District Attorney, was dismissed yesterday morning by Justice Crutchfield when arraigned in Police Court charged with violating a city ordinance by blowing an automobile horn of excessive lung power to the annoyance of the neighborhood. The horn was used for the benefit of the court, but the charge was not sustained.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE HOLDS FINAL EXERCISES

Diplomas and Medals Are Awarded to Large Class of Graduates.

DR. E. N. CALISEH MAKES ADDRESS

Joseph C. Taylor Presents Three
Medals in Recognition of Special Merit.

Commencement exercises last night, at which diplomas were delivered to the largest class in the history of the Virginia Mechanics' Institute, were marked by the delivery of a scholarly and thoroughly interesting address to the members of the graduating class by Dr. E. N. Caliseh. A crowd which taxed the seating capacity of the auditorium and which was most enthusiastic in the applause of the medals and the honor men of the present year attended, and after the exercises visited the various laboratories and workshops to examine the displays which had been arranged for the occasion.

One of the features of the commencement exercises was the delivery of the three medals which are awarded each year. The delivery of these medals was made by Joseph C. Taylor, who made the presentation one of added moment by the stress which he laid upon the general excellence which the students winning them had shown.

Jackson Frayser Children won the "Lou-Nor" medal for the proficiency of work in the drawing of historical originals.

Henry Lee Cudlipp was the winner of the "Chevring" medal for faithfulness and general excellence, as well as during the past session. The "Addie Cole" medal for excellence in theoretical electricity.

DR. E. N. CALISEH MAKES

ADDRESS TO GRADUATES

The address made by Dr. Caliseh to the graduating class was listened to with the greatest attention. It was masterly in its scope, and opened a vista of the future in the world of mechanics and electricity which stirred the minds of even the least imaginative.

Dr. Caliseh emphasized the fact that knowledge carried with it a responsibility of its own and admonished the graduates that they appreciate this and put into their work the best of which they were capable.

After tracing the history of accomplishments in the last few years in the harnessing of natural energies for the use of man and showing that, especially in electricity, the world is now barely on the threshold of the future possibilities, he said that the work done by the graduates in the school course was but the gaining of the knowledge which made them responsible for the use to which they put that knowledge in their life's work.

"Knowledge gives power greater even than that of the power itself," the speaker asserted. "You must realize the added responsibilities which knowledge gives to its possessor and must govern the use of that knowledge accordingly. The purpose for which you have taken these courses here is not so much for increasing the possibilities of luxuries in your future lives as it is for the betterment of your fellowmen. There is a moral responsibility which is now yours, and you must put into your work the very best that is in you. You must put into it that which the world which you operate lacks; that which is not found in the energy and the power which you have harnessed to your will—a sentiment, a personality and a love which you possess—if you are to adequately meet these responsibilities."

The speaker was introduced by the chairman of the school committee, James D. Crump.

MEDALS AND CERTIFICATES

DELIVERED TO GRADUATES

Following the address to the graduates, the medals were awarded, and Superintendent Frank W. Duke delivered them. He called attention to the exercises marked the close of the school year in the history of the Virginia Mechanics' Institute and the close of the thirtieth year since the reorganization in 1884. This reorganization was necessary to reestablish the institution, which had been practically destroyed in the great Richmond fire in 1862.

The lists of graduates and honor pupils follow:

Electricity—Henry Lee Cudlipp, Paul C. Knieleski, James Richmond Stever.

Physics—Henry Lee Cudlipp.

Mechanical Drawing—William Herr Eubank.

Bookkeeping—Harvie Muse Turner, John Anthony Shipley, Melville Woodin Beams, Thomas O'Ferrall, John Henry Vonderlehr.

Practical Electricity—Otto Critz.

Cabinetmaking—Ervin Frank Tynis, Lee Roy Foster.

Machine Shop—Eugene Leonard Brimley, Arthur Ray Hall, William Thomas Boaze, Arthur Lee Isley, William Herr Eubank, Edward Bernard Phelps, John Joseph Fisher, Thomas Cleveland Woodson.

First honors—Arithmetic A1, Charles

Boone Driskill; Arithmetic A2, Charles

Boone Driskill; Arithmetic B1, Lillburn Washington Beams; Jr., Arithmetic B2, Herbert Dewey Taylor; Arithmetic C1, Fred Conny Caswell; Arithmetic C2, Robert Johnson Hessman; Arithmetic S1-1, Harry O. Austin; Arithmetic S1-2, Carl William Nelson; Algebra A, Henry Welford Rose, Algebra B, Arthur Lee Isley; Algebra Special, Ellis Hamilton Cosby; Geometry A, Frank Williams Deane; Jr., Geometry B, Henry Lee Cudlipp; Trigonometry, Henry Lee Cudlipp; Bookkeeping A, Bishop Ashbury Corcoran; Bookkeeping B, Harvie Muse Turner; Freehand Drawing A, Berkelie Zarnett; Freehand Drawing B, Jackson Frayser Children; Instrumental Drawing No. 1, W. David Bruner; Instrumental Drawing No. 2, Henry W. O'Grady; Philip Edward Cosby; Instrumental Drawing No. 3, Dear Clutter Norris; Peter B. Hess; Architectural Drawing, John Andrew Skinner, Jr.; Mechanical Drawing, John Joseph Fisher; Estimating for Building Trades, Carl Williams Nelson; Keene; Recreational Physics A, James Richmond Stever; Physics B, Albert Nixon Thistle; Electricity A, Ernest Benjamin Page; Electricity B, Ellis Hamilton Cosby; Practical Electricity, Otto Critz; Lee Cudlipp; Telegraphy, Emmett Cox; Engraving B, Clifton Emmett Sutherland; Clay Modeling, Paul Franklin Hambrick; Cabinetmaking, Otto Julius Hiller; Wood patternmaking, Joseph Kluebert; Machine Shop, Charles Underhill; Plumbing, Samuel E. Hatcher, Automobile, Coleman Huleher.
